3. OUR OLIVE OILS: 3.1 OLIVE VARIETIES:

dequina

La ARBEQUINA is variety of olive highly valued throughtout the world, it is the base of Flor de Sal oil tomake and extra irgin oil with the best organoleptic quality. It is an olive juice of an intense fruity herbaceous green color, with notes of vegetables, artichokes, freshly cut grass and green almonds. in the mouth it is sweet, with a slight bitterness and a little bit spicy. This taste character is given by the early olive harvest but it will get milder by the passage of time. It is a soft and very fluid oil in the mouth. It is a fresh virgin olive oil that combines perfectly with fresh or cooked veggies, grilled fish or simply with a good bread.

PICUAL is originally from Jaen and represents 50% os Spanish olive production and 20% of the world production. It gives an oil of green tones and with a predominance of bitter flavors. Its name comes from the pointed form (peak) of the olive. It is the best variety in the world. The olive is medium to large in size, with 3.2 grams on average. Maturation occurs from the beginning of November to the middle of December. The tree has great vigor, with branches that are somewhat short, branched and tend to produce shoots and pacifiers. It has a high stability index and a high content of oleic acid and natural antioxidants. Its high content of polyphenols, make it the most stable oil that exists. They are ideal for cooking fish and shellfish and especially for making vegetable stir-fry.

KORONEIKI is a variety of Greek origin being the most cultivated variety in their country of origin. Very rich in oleic acid, polyphenols and bitter compounds that give it a long shelf life and make it very stable. This extra virgin oil generally has an intense green, fruity and very rich in secondary aromas, reminiscent of the olive leaf and various vegetables, such as artichoke. Its color is very intense and clean green due to the large amount of chlorolas it has given its extra early harvest. In the mouth, it presents a great creaminess with positive attributes of spicing, bitterness and astringency of medium intensity, although a clear note of sweetness persists that contributes to maintaining a certain sensory balance. Ideal for use in raw with white fish, fresh vegetables, salads or vinaigrettes.

3.2 SHIO COLLECTION :

SHIO is about monovarietal extra-early harvest AOVES.

Their olives are selected for their quality, when they are still very green, so they get very low acidity and low yield. They also have a high content of polyphenols (antioxidants) SHIO is characterized by being very aromatic, fruity, bitter and spicy oils.

SHIO PICUAL

Intense green, it is an oil that subtly impacts on the nose, clean and fragrant, where aromas of apple, freshly cut grass, tomato leaf, fig tree and artichoke are found. Positive herbaceous attributes all derived from an early harvest. In the mouth it is balanced and fresh. In the background, green almond memories appear. It complements perfectly with a soft and elegant bitter and spicy touch.

SHIO KORONEIKI

Intense green in color, the nose denotes a medium-intense fruity. On the palate it is balanced, with sensations of itching, bitterness and astringency, combined with a touch of sweetness.

SHIO Koroneiki is a peculiar oil that transports us to ancient Greece with its aromas of artichoke and freshly cut grass and nuances of green almond, olive leaf, apple and fig tree.

WHY SHIO?

"From the union of two elements present in our fields, salt and dragonfly, SHIO was born. which means salt in Japanese. We have made the symbolism of the dragonfly in Japan, the emblem of our brand and philosophy of life. It is revered since ancient times and protects the rice paddies from pests. Besides, it has a meaning of change, metamorphosis, strength and elegance "

At Flor de Sal we are committed to the development and support of small local producers. That is why we also distribute high quality rice from two producers in our area, Arroz Brazal and Arroz Niral. These rice fields are located higher than any other plantation in Spain and therefore are crops that resist low temperatures. In addition, the irrigation water comes from the melting of the Pyrenees. These conditions favor a slow maturation of the grain, and reduce the presence of pests and diseases.

The varieties we work with are the following:

BRAZAL RICE:

MARATELLI: round and pearly grain, ideal for paellas, risottos and baked rice.

GUADIAMAR: Crystalline medium grain, perfect for white rice, side dishes and sushi.

INTEGRAL: medium grain, suitable for salads, rice with vegetables and garnishes.

BALILLA X SOLLANA round and pearly grain, suitable for risottos and honeyed.

BOMBA: short and pearly grain, perfect for soupy and honeyed.

NIRAL RICE:

CARNAROLI: It is one of the types of rice most used in the preparation of risotto because it retains its shape after slow cooking, absorbs the flavors, offers a firm, spongy texture and with the nucleus al dente.

It is a medium grain, round and white rice, considered the king of rice, classified as a superfine rice and of the highest quality.

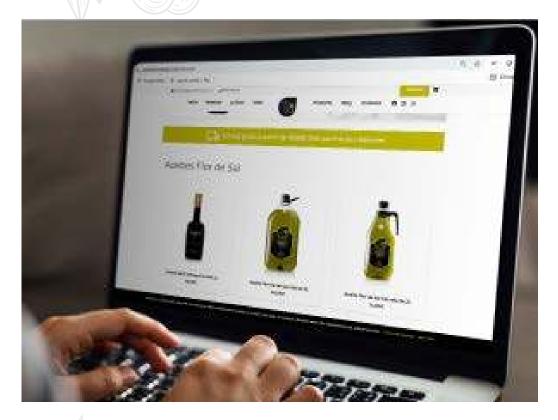

OKURA: It is a glutinous rice, originally from Japan but cultivated in Spain, used among other uses to make sushi, recognizable for its high starch content. Below we present the full range of distributed products:
